

Press Release – APPOINTMENT

Paris, France, February 10, 2026

Primexis strengthens its International Business Services department with the appointment of Mélanie Lahoud as Partner

Primexis, a financial consulting and specialized accounting firm, announces the appointment of Mélanie Lahoud as Partner in its International Business Services (IBS) department.

This appointment accompanies the firm's development with international groups based in France in a context of increasing accounting standards, enhanced financial reporting, and strict compliance obligations.

The IBS department brings together 70 specialists who assist French subsidiaries of international groups, foreign investors, and fast-growing companies in managing their accounting, tax, social, and administrative obligations. Mélanie Lahoud will contribute to the development of these activities, drawing on her expertise in financial management and international coordination.

Experience

An ICAEW Chartered Accountant and emlyon business school graduate, Mélanie Lahoud has over 15 years of experience working with multinational groups.

She started her career at Mazars in London in auditing before joining Mazars Singapore where she helped develop the Accounting & Outsourcing services and supervised a rapidly growing team serving an international client base.

She continued her career in New York as a Financial Manager of the American subsidiary of Carl Hansen & Son and was responsible for all financial operations.

Back in France, she joined Forvis Mazars Paris as a Senior Manager in the AOS International department where she assisted French and international groups with their accounting, financial, and organizational challenges.

"Developing our International Business Services department is a strategic priority for Primexis. Today, international groups are looking for partners who are capable of securing their operations and managing increasingly complex financial environments. The arrival of Mélanie Lahoud increases our ability to meet these challenges with close operational proximity and recognized international expertise."

— Olivier Touchard, Primexis Chairman

"I am delighted to join Primexis and its teams. After 15 years between London, Singapore, New York, and Paris, I find that Primexis combines the technical expertise of large international firms with the responsiveness and proximity of a dedicated team. I look forward to putting my experience to work for the firm's clients."

— Mélanie Lahoud, International Business Services Partner
